

Gettin' Old - Dave Whitcher Saga

Lyrics & Music ©2022 Dave Whitcher

Listening to a song like this, is a sign that you're gettin' old
Taking five minutes just to take a piss, is a sign that you're gettin' old
Losin' your keys three times a week, is a sign that you're gettin' old
Same damn story every time you speak, it's a sign that you're gettin' old

The last thing I think this world needs is a song like this from a guy like me
When you get done listening, I think you'll agree...
I'm gettin' old. You're gettin' old. We're gettin' old.
At least we're together.

Did not mean to take a nap, I'm not gettin' old,
I don't need no google map, 'cause I'm not gettin' old,
My age is on that highway sign, but I'm not gettin' old
Can't see much, but I'm not blind, no, I ain't gettin' old.

I get up at the crack of dawn, Holler at the kids, "Get off my lawn!"
They don't even hear me, 'cause they're already gone
I'm gettin' old. You're gettin' old. We're gettin' old.
At least we're together.

Audiobooks and NPR: signs that you're gettin' old
If you don't know where you parked the car, you must be gettin' old
When people say, "You don't look that old!" it means you're gettin' old
If you still watch the Ellen Show, I know you're gettin' old!

If some of this, sounds a bit, like it was written about you,
Maybe it is time to admit...
We're gettin' old. I'm' gettin' old. You're gettin' old.
At least We're together.
At least. We're. Together.
